How to Register for New Frontiers Classes

Go to newfrontiers.mesacc.edu and select “Member’s Acct”.

Follow the instructions on the Search/Login screen through the CHECKOUT process.

NOTE: If the box to select the student you wish to register does not appear on your screen, disregard that instruction.

To finalize your class registrations:

a. Check the Terms-of-Use box, “☐ I have read and agree with the policies…”

b. Click on CONTINUE (it should be highlighted).

To see your registrations online:

- You must be logged in, and on the Search/Login screen.
- Select “My Account”. You may have to search for this option. If you see a “wheel”, similar to a Settings icon, click on that; or if “Account” appears after your name, at the top right, select the arrow beneath that. Your screen may differ, depending on your computer device.
- When you find “My Account”, scroll down to the bottom of the page, where you should find “Account Registrations” among other options.

If you do not find your classes listed under “Account Registrations”, you have missed a step and will need to repeat the registration process.

Be sure to Log Off to exit. Again, you may have to poke around on the Search/Login screen to find the Logoff button, depending on what computer device you are using.

Dark money, this relatively new campaign-finance phenomenon of hidden contributions, is seen by some to reflect a genuine threat to democracy. Its defenders, on the other hand, argue that this approach to funding political campaigns is merely an extension of Americans’ basic right to free speech. This presentation focuses on the development of the dark money issue and its manifestation in Arizona politics, what should or could be done about it, and how it relates to some broader problems regarding campaign finance.

BIOGRAPHY

Mikhail Gorbachev

Gorbachev stated on April 20, 2020 (only a month after Covid-19 ground life to a half across the world) the following: "What we urgently need now is a rethinking of the entire concept of security. Rather than measure security purely in military terms, as we usually do, the overriding goal must be human security, providing food, water and a clean environment and caring for people's health." Gorbachev, who celebrated his 90th birthday on March 2, 2021 was perhaps the most radical thinker about security to ever lead a major world power. Since the end of his tenure, Gorbachev has continued to argue for new thinking about security, and recent events have vindicated his prescience. In the face of mounting global crises, have leaders heeded lessons that he has promoted for decades?

Legacy of Dr AJ Chandler

This is an exploration using computer modeling and the archives of Frank Lloyd Wright. During the final decade of Arizona Territory and first decade of statehood, the industry and vision of Dr. Alexander J. Chandler has left us with structures of architectural innovation, real and imagined. As the architect who restored two of them, the San Marcos Resort Hotel in Chandler (1913), and Mesa’s Chandler Court (1908), I have documented their history with vintage photographs and virtual computer models based upon old blueprints.

With screen-captured images of my computer models as well as vintage photographs, you'll discover the history of Dr. Chandler's buildings, the founding of the town of Chandler, and I will reveal through the archives of Frank Lloyd Wright the lavish drawings and potential wonder of Dr. Chandler's proposed Water Gardens and San Marcos in the Desert.

Frank Lloyd Wright

Presenter: Dr. Stephen Siek - ASU Emeritus College Professor

Frank Lloyd Wright: the Early Years. In 1887, a 20-year-old Frank Lloyd Wright arrived in Chicago from his native Wisconsin to pursue a career in architecture, and within six years he had established his own firm. He specialized in domestic architecture, an area often neglected by the leading architects of the day, and he was now determined to bring a new kind of house to the American prairie. This course—which presumes no prior knowledge—examines Wright’s Chicago-area houses before 1910 (many of which have been beautifully restored), stressing the underlying philosophic ideas that guided his architectural choices.

Taliesin Tour

UNESCO World Heritage site, Wright’s beloved winter home and desert laboratory was established in 1937 and diligently handcrafted over many years into a world unto itself. Deeply connected to the desert from which it was forged, Taliesin West possesses an almost prehistoric grandeur. It was built and maintained almost entirely by Wright and his apprentices, making it among the most personal of the architect’s creations. You’ll be drawn closer to Frank Lloyd Wright’s world on Taliesin West’s signature tour. Visit Wright's private quarters and living room, the gracious Taliesin West “Garden Room,” the Drafting Studio, the Music Pavilion, the Cabaret, and more.
Tickets are $40. Date is tentative and based on when Taliesin West announces their fall tour schedule.

Bullets and Bedlam on AZ Frontier

Presenter: Jay Mark

Bullets and Bedlam: Danger on AZ Frontier

In 19th century America, there weren’t many places as remote as the Arizona Territory. Only the hardiest and bravest could survive the lonely, isolated reality of living life on the frontier, where hazards lurked around every corner – hostile Indians, lethal critters, and the many perils of mining. Add in greed, and a few other volatile ingredients. If one thing didn’t get ya…then certainly another would. Odds were against long-term survival.

Today, burial grounds, and abandoned graveyards are littered with the remains of those who perished endeavoring to eke out an existence in this terrifying territory. Bullets and Bedlam that led to barbarism and blood, explores violent ventures and deadly dangers that our forefathers faced. Experience their story if you dare. “Not for the faint of heart.”

In the first workshop, we explain why the federal government’s "Star Safety Rating” and Insurance Institute’s “Top Safety Picks” systems were originally developed. With this understanding, you will be better prepared to interpret these ratings in your car-buying decisions.

What about YOU?

Presenter: Nydia Montijo,

You care for others, but who is caring for you? Are you a parent? Are you regularly helping your parents with day to day activities and tasks? Do you in any way assist anyone in your house who has a disability or an ongoing medical condition? If so, you are a caregiver. You are amazing, and we appreciate all of the sacrifices you make on a daily basis- your love for others is a vital part of keeping our society going. But, we are worried about you. We are noticing an escalating trend of caregivers burning out, getting injured, manifesting their own negative health conditions and some are even dying. We have crafted this workshop specifically to give back to you. We go over the physical and emotional toll of being a caregiver and help identify factors of self-neglect. We provide practical solutions for eliminating fatigue and avoiding it in the future. We review self-care techniques and logistical tips to make any needed change sustainable, reasonable, and doable. Allow us to provide some relief, soothe some possible guilt, and equip you to love in a sustainable way.

Presenter: Nydia Montijo

Let us demystify it! Do you have members who are planning retirement? Are your people connected with anyone who has a disability or is navigating a serious illness? If so, you know people who are already navigating the complexities of Long Term Care. Grasping what Long Term Care is, what resources and services are out there and which ones are actually needed, and how you pay for all of it can be overwhelming. Our workshop has been designed specifically to help demystify the process and help people understand their options. If you would like to help your members be as equipped as possible to create the best system of resources for their unique life needs, then let’s connect. Are You Dementia Friendly?
Presenter: Nydia Montijo
This training from the Dementia-Friendly America National Network will ensure that you are!
Arizona has the second-highest growth rate for Alzheimer’s- which is the 6th leading cause of death in the U.S. and just one of the dementias you can be diagnosed with.
Is dementia a normal part of aging? Do only older adults get it? Is it more than just a memory problem?
If you are diagnosed, what kind of quality of life can someone expect?
Our workshop will cover these questions and more, including what dementia actually is, what the warning signs are, and how to create an environment that is friendly to those who have been diagnosed.
The question isn’t about whether or not you will run into someone with dementia, but when. If you want to be someone who can respond with respect for what they are going through and act in a way that is safe for both you and them, then this presentation is a must.
